Categories of data subjects

The categories of data subjects are website visitors and other users of online services.

General information on data processing on the website

Automated data processing (log files etc.)

Our website can be visited without actively providing personal information about the user. However, every time our website is accessed, we automatically store access data (server log files), such as the name of the internet service provider, the operating system used, the website the user visited us from, the date and duration of the visit and the name of the file accessed, as well the IP address of the device used for security reasons, such as to recognise attacks on our website for a period of 14 days. This data is not merged with other data sources. We process and use the data for the following purposes: provision of the website, prevention and detection of errors/malfunctions, and the abuse of the website.

Data categories:	Meta and communication data (e.g. IP address, date and time of access, time, type of HTTP request, website from which access is made (referrer URL), browser used and, if applicable, operating system of the accessing computer (user agent))
Purpose of the processing:	Prevention and detection of errors/malfunctions, detection of abuse of the website
Legal basis:	Legitimate interest according to Art. 6 para. 1 lit. f) GDPR
Legitimate interests:	Fraud prevention to detect abuse of the website

Required cookies (functionality, opt-out links, etc.)

We use cookies on our website to enable the use of the basic functions on our website and to provide the service requested by the user. Cookies are a standard Internet technology for storing and retrieving information for website users. Cookies represent information and/or data that can be stored on the user's end device, for example. With classic cookie technology, the user's browser is instructed to store certain information on the user's device when a specific website is accessed.

Strictly required cookies are used to provide a digital service expressly requested by the user, e.g:

- Cookies for error analysis and security purposes
- Cookies for storing logins
- Cookies for storing data in online forms if the form extends over several pages
- Cookies for saving (language) settings
- Cookies to store articles in the shopping basket by users to complete the purchase
- Cookies for storing consent or withdrawal (opt-in, opt-out)

Some of the cookies used (session cookies) are erased after the end of the browser session, i.e. after closing the browser.

Cookies can be erased by users afterwards to remove data that the website has stored on the user's computer.

The data processing described may also relate to information that is not personal but constitutes information within the meaning of the TDDDG. In these cases, this information may be necessary for the use of an expressly requested service and may therefore be stored in accordance with § 25 TDDDG.

Beyond the required scope, user data may be processed by cookies, similar technologies or application-related technologies, e.g. for the purpose of (cross-website) tracking or personalized advertising etc.. Data may be transmitted to third-party providers. The storage and further processing of user data that is not necessary to provide the digital service, is then carried out on the basis of consent within the meaning of Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a) GDPR (if applicable in conjunction with § 25 para. 1 sentence 2 TDDDG).

Consent Management Platforms (Consent Management)

We use a consent management procedure on our online offering in order to be able to prove, store and manage the consent granted by our website visitors in accordance with the requirements of the GDPR.

The consent management platform used helps us to identify all cookies and tracking technologies and to control them based on the consent status. At the same time, visitors to our website can use the consent management service we have integrated to manage the consents and preferences granted (optional setting of cookies and other technologies that are not required) or revoke consent at any time using the button.

The status of the consent is stored on the server and/or in a cookie (so-called opt-in cookie) or a comparable technology in order to be able to assign the consent to a user or their device. The time of the declaration of consent is also recorded.

Content Management System (with data transmission)

We use a so-called Content Management System (CMS) to edit, organize, and display digital content on our website. The application is web-based and runs on the provider's servers.

The CMS allows us to create, edit, and manage our website and equip it with the necessary features (e.g., forms, blogs, images, and other digital content). In addition, the website designed using the CMS helps ensure that our website is more easily found by users on search engine results pages (SERPs) when they search for information.

Support from an integrated firewall within the CMS ensures that our website is protected against external attacks, thereby preventing misuse of the website. This is achieved through the additional installation of so-called security plugins in our CMS. A plugin is third-party content that stores, logs, and automatically transmits website usage data to the third-party provider. The plugin is used for error analysis and vulnerability identification.

Additionally, we ensure that the CMS undergoes regular updates and patches to guarantee the security of our website, which is based on the CMS.

Presence on social media

We have a company profile on social networks and career platforms to increase our visibility among potential customers and interested parties and to make our company visible to the public.

Social networks help us to increase our reach and actively promote interaction and communication with users. Social media activity and communication is very important in attracting new customers and employees. Social media and the website can be used to share relevant information about our company, publish events and communicate important short-term announcements and job postings. They also help us to communicate quickly and easily with users.

Social media platform operators create user profiles based on user behavior, for example by listing interests (likes, shares). These are used to adapt advertisements to the interests of target groups. When users are active on social media channels, cookies or other technologies are regularly stored on users' end devices, in some cases regardless of whether they are registered users of the social network.

Insights (statistics)

The data evaluated from the social media platform operators is provided to us in the form of anonymized statistics, which means that it no longer contains any personal data of users. We can use the statistics to see, for example, how often and at what time our social media profile was visited. It is currently not possible for fan page operators to deactivate this function. We therefore have no influence on the extent to which data is processed by social media platforms.

Social Media Messenger

In connection with the use of social media, we may use the associated messengers to be able to communicate easily with users. The security of individual services may depend on the user's account settings. Even in the case of end-to-end encryption, the social media platform operator can draw conclusions about the fact that and when users communicate with us. Location data can also be recorded.

Depending on where the social network is operated, user data may be processed outside the European Union or outside the European Economic Area. The processing may result in risks for users, as it makes it more difficult for them to enforce their own rights.

Data categories: User names (e.g. surname, first name), contact data (e.g. e-mail address), content data (e.g. text details, photographs, videos), usage and interaction data (e.g. websites visited, interests, likes, shares, access times), meta and communication data (e.g. device information, IP address, location data if applicable)

Purposes of the processing: Increasing reach, awareness-raising activities, rapid networking

Legal basis: Legitimate interests (Art. 6 para. 1 lit. f) GDPR), consent (Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a) GDPR)

Legitimate interests: Interaction and communication on social media presence, profit increase, insights about target groups

Plugins and integrated third-party content

We have integrated functions and content obtained from third-party providers into our website. Our website includes functions and elements that are obtained from third-party providers. For example, videos, depictions, buttons or contributions (hereinafter termed 'content') can be integrated. If this third-party content is accessed by website visitors (e.g. click, play, etc.), information and data are collected and linked to the website visitor's end device in the form of cookies or other technologies (e.g. pixels, Java Script commands or web assembly) and transmitted to the server of the third-party provider used. The third-party provider thereby receives usage and interaction data from the website visitor and makes this available to us in the form of statistics via a dashboard. The statistics we receive do not contain any clear user data.

Without this processing operation, it is not possible to load and display this third-party content.

In order to protect the personal data of website visitors, we have taken protective measures to prevent the automatic transmission of this data to the third-party provider. This data is only transmitted when users actively use the buttons and click on the third-party content.

Newsletter and mass communication with tracking

On our online offering, users have the option of subscribing to our newsletter or to notifications on various channels (hereinafter referred to overall as 'newsletters'). We only send newsletters to data subjects who have agreed to receive the newsletter, and within the framework of statutory provisions. We use a select service provider to send out our newsletter.

An email address must be provided to subscribe to our newsletter. If applicable, we collect extra data, such as your name to include a personal greeting in our newsletter.

Our newsletter is only sent after the 'double opt-in procedure' has been fully completed. If visitors to our online offering decide to receive our newsletter, they will receive a confirmation email that serves to prevent the fraudulent input of wrong email addresses and preclude a single, possibly accidental, click from causing the newsletter to be sent. The subscription to our newsletter can be ended at any time with future effect. An unsubscription (opt-out) link is given at the end of every newsletter.

In addition, we are obliged to provide proof that our subscribers actually want to receive the newsletter. To this end, we collect and store their IP address, along with the time of subscription and unsubscription.

Newsletter Tracking

Our newsletters are designed so that we can obtain findings about improvements, target groups or the reading behaviour of our subscribers. We are able to do this thanks to a 'web beacon' or tracking pixel that reacts to interactions with the newsletter, such as looking at whether links are clicked on, whether the newsletter is opened at all, or at what time the newsletter is read. For technical reasons, we can associate this information with individual subscribers.

Data categories:	Master data (e.g. name, address), contact data (e.g. e-mail address, telephone number), meta and communication data (e.g. device information, IP address), usage data (e.g. interests, access times)

Internal area and digital services

Registration

We offer the option of setting up a user account on our online offering. As part of the registration process, we collect the necessary data from interested users that we need to provide a user account and the associated functions.

To prevent the internal area from being exploited, we collect IP addresses and the time of access to prevent misuse of a user account and unauthorised usage. We do not pass this data on to third parties unless it is necessary to pursue our claims or we are legally obliged to do so.

In addition, we have set up the so-called double opt-in procedure for first-time registration. When users register for the first time, they receive a confirmation link from us to the e-mail address (user name) they have provided, which must be confirmed separately by the user within a certain period of time. In this way, we ensure that registration actually takes place at the user's request and that misuse is avoided.

Protected login area

To protect the user accounts from unauthorized access, logging in to the user account requires another measure in addition to entering the password, e.g. entering a code sent to a mobile device (so-called multi-factor authentication). In this way, we ensure that misuse of the login process is avoided.

Data categories: Master data (e.g. name, address), contact data (e.g. e-mail address, telephone number), login data (user name and password), possibly other content data (e.g. text input), meta and communication data (e.g. device information, IP addresses), usage data (e.g. access times)

In the event of contact being made, we process the data of the person making the enquiry to the extent necessary for answering or handling their enquiry. Which data is processed depends on the way in which contact is made with us.

Data categories: Master data (e.g. name, address), contact data (e.g. email address, telephone number), content data (e.g. text input, photographs, videos), usage data (e.g. interests, access times), meta and communication data (e.g. device information, IP address).

In all other cases, we delete personal data once the purpose has been fulfilled, with the exception of data that we need to continue to store to comply with legal obligations (e.g. if retention periods under tax law and trade law require us to keep documents such as contracts and invoices for a certain period of time).
